

ALAN KARCHMER

Alan Karchmer comes to his work interpreting the built environment from the world of architecture. With a Masters in Architecture he brings to his images an authoritative sense of space, form, texture, and light. His clients include leading architects in the U.S. and abroad who value his ability to read a building and create images that reveal their complex works to observers within and outside the design professions.

Karchmer often works with his wife, Photo Stylist Sandra Ann Benedum, to make photographs that have an inherent honesty and convey a sense of real experience, incorporating aspects of life, use, and context that animate and humanize the buildings and places.
