

ANICE HOACHLANDER

Anice Hoachlander is a professional photographer dedicated to the fine art of photographing architecture and interior design. She is the founding partner of Hoachlander Davis Photography and for over 30 years, Anice has worked with architects and designers to document their projects for awards, portfolios and magazine articles. Anice has a visual fascination with architecture - how light and shadow can help define a building or create abstract patterns and designs. She brings to her work an artistic eye, keen attention to compositional detail and extensive experience in natural and interior lighting techniques. Anice is also recognized as an informative and entertaining speaker, invited most recently to present at DesignDC in June 2011.
