

MORGAN HOWARTH

During the last 25 years, Morgan Howarth has owned and operated a full service commercial photography studio specializing in state of the art digital photography for the advertising, catalog, editorial and stock image industries. Mr. Howarth has expert status in all formats of digital photography, Photoshop, and computer systems related to the photography industry. Mr. Howarth graduated from Southern Illinois University with a degree in cinema and photography and opened a very successful commercial photography studio in Chicago shooting for all the major advertising agencies.

After 14 years in Chicago he relocated his commercial studio to Portland, Maine expanding to a cutting edge 3000 square foot studio shooting advertising, catalogs, editorial, and fashion photography for clients such as Timex, Cole Haan, CBS, Timberland and Reebok. In addition to operating a photography studio, Mr. Howarth was one of three founders and principals of the Maine Photo Co-op a non-profit educational organization offering walk-in rental color and Black and white darkrooms, film and print processing labs, lighting studio, lecture series, and a variety of twenty courses and workshops.

Mr. Howarth moved to the Washington DC area in 2007. "Now I shoot the most beautiful homes in DC, Maryland, Virginia and across the country, food from the newest restaurants in the metro areas, and portraits of the most prominent that populate the Washington DC and surrounding communities." In the last three years Mr. Howarth has shot 10 covers and 48 separate articles for Washington Spaces Magazine as well as advertising and editorial materials for many Architects, Builders and Designers across the country.
